In the place of the Germans they were unmercifully attacked. During the morning and the evening they continuously brought up new forces for the occupation of the Meuse hills, near Sedan.

An attack from the Forest of St. Mihiel, broke down before our outposts. In the Forest of Argonne we are progressing slowly. A French advance in the west of Arras failed.

Russians Are Pressing On; Report Foes' Loss at 300,000

LONDON, April 9.—Despatches from Petrograd say the Russian forces are in possession of all the main summits and slopes of the Beskid Mountains. Army officers assert that the Austrian operations in the Carpathians have collapsed. The Russian General Staff is now considering the best approach into Hungary.

The operations centering about Munkacs, including the important points of Hatfield, Lufkew and Unsk, appear virtually to have ended, with the Austrians on the defensive along the whole line and perceptibly weakened. The deep snow which still covers the Carpathian ridges stands in the way of a rapid advance into Hungary.

The country between the Dan and Laborez Rivers is considered to provide the best route. The Russian French attack in the west of France did not under our fire, but north and southeast of this point they led to bitter hand-to-hand fighting, in which our troops gained the upperhand and drove the enemy back. Night advances by the French in this district were unsuccessful.

In the West of France the French were faced to meet and ground. An attempt of the enemy to capture the village of Beaumont in the south-west of France failed. The French have captured, killed, and wounded many of the enemy's troops.

It is of the opinion that the Germans already have transferred all available troops from other fronts to defend this region, and that therefore they will be unable to offer any more formidable opposition than heretofore.

It is expected that the German answer to the Russian advance will be the development of a new movement in Poland, starting from Thorn or Cracow.

In view of these conditions, talk of a separate peace for Austria-Hungary has been revived. Such a possibility is discussed widely in the Russian press and in diplomatic circles.

Various reports indicate that Hungary is in a state of terror over the Russian advance and demanding that the dual monarchy ask a separate peace. A Budapest despatch to-day estimates that Austria-Hungary losses in killed, wounded and prisoners in the defense of Hungary from invasion totaled more than 300,000. At least 100,000 of these were prisoners, according to the Budapest estimate.

MAY BANISH GIRL WHO SCREAMED AT TEACHER FAUSEL

Anna Cohen Released Under Suspended Sentence Pending Conference as to Fate.

RIDES IN THE PATROL.

Girl's Record Showed She Had Stayed Out as Late as 11 o'clock.

For having committed the offense of standing with a group of girls when one of them cried out in devotion at Assistant Principal Robert A. Fausel, of Public School No. 52, teacher and Essex Street, Anna Cohen, a pupil of the school, probably will be banished from New York and made to study in some other city.

This astonishing situation developed during the arraignment of Anna in the Children's Court today as a "juvenile delinquent." The girl was arrested Monday afternoon in front of the Public School which she attended. Fausel had his name entered as the complainant against her on the lieutenant's book at the Delancy Street Station, and charged her with "annoying him by shouting at him in the street."

Next she became a prisoner of the Children's Society, while Celia Jossam, a probation officer, proceeded to look up her record.

Three crowning thrusts of humiliation came for her to-day. One was a ride to the Children's Court in a patrol wagon. The second was her arraignment before Judge Hoyt, when Fausel did not even appear to tell why he had caused her arrest.

The last will be a conference between her mother, her brother, Lazarus, Probation Officer Jossam and Principal Leon Goldrich of Public School No. 62, to decide whether she shall remain a pupil at the school or be sent to live with relatives in another city.

The probation officer said in court to-day she thought that Anna's departure from the lower east side would be a good thing for her. Anna let it be known she was anxious to remain and continue her studies, which end in June.

The lower east side was in a turmoil over the case to-day. Crowds stood near Public School No. 62, and at the noon hour workmen clustered near the building and said uncomplimentary things of Fausel.

So strong is the wave of sympathy for Anna and the indignation that an assistant principal of a public school should have a pupil carted away to a police station for a trivial remark he was not sure she made that two lawyers were retained to represent her. One, Rudolph Stand, went at the request of a Jewish newspaper, and the other, Louis J. Jacques, appeared because friends of the Cohens had asked him.

Although Anna is only fourteen, she appears to be fully seventeen. To-day her brown hair was disheveled and her blue eyes were tear-stained.

Anna said she didn't shriek, but some one did, and then Fausel blew a police whistle and pointed her out as the offender.

Probation Officer Jossam's report stated that Anna actually had been one of those who shrieked at the dominie.

"Many other offenses have been committed by Anna?" asked the judge.

"Complaints have been very numerous," answered Miss Jossam.

Attorney Stand said: "I've been inquiring about this little girl. She is good, quiet, well behaved. It is true she is not liked by her teachers."

Judge Hoyt then said he understood the shouting at the assistant principal was the culmination of a series of disagreeable acts; that Anna had been seen out at 11 P. M. or later.

"The point in this case, Your Honor," said Stand, "is that a school teacher ought to be able to command the respect of his pupils without resorting to a uniform and brass buttons."

Lazarus Cohen here said he had seen Principal Goldrich, who said the arrest "was not a happy one."

"What do you propose to do?" asked Judge Hoyt.

"Send her to relatives outside the city if it is imperative anything to crush this notoriety," replied Lazarus.

"Now Anna," the Court then said to the girl, "whether you called out I don't know. Of the fifteen girls you were with six had been expelled from that school."

"I don't want to make you feel you have been singled out. Your brother told me he was very desirous to have you go with relatives outside the city. What I want particularly to emphasize is that other schoolgirls shall not be disorderly."

Anna was permitted to go under a suspended sentence, with the understanding that a conference be held to decide whether she shall be banished from New York or remain to finish her studies.

RICHMOND, Va., April 9.—Joe Willard, the new heavyweight champion, and his party arrived here at 11 o'clock to-day. He received a big and hearty demonstration. The night journey was uneventful.

Willard will give his first public exhibition as heavyweight champion in Baltimore to-night. He will leave Baltimore after midnight for New York for an exhibition and reception there to-morrow afternoon. He is to go to Philadelphia to-morrow night for an exhibition in that city.

BRITISH GIVE OUT NEW CASUALTY LIST FOR NEUVE CHAPPELLE

LONDON, April 9.—Another extended list of casualties, totalling 1,108 names, was issued by the British War Office to-day, and it emphasizes the fierceness of the battle of Neuve Chapelle, in France, last month. The killed in this latest list number 336.

The British casualty list issued to-day, when added to those issued in the previous two days, shows that a total of 4,058 men were either killed or wounded or are missing, and to a large extent these casualties are attributed to the battle of Neuve Chapelle, which resulted in the capture of that French town by the British in the second week of March. Out of the casualty total of 4,058 men were killed.

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, April 8.—The preliminary baseball season for 1918 began here this afternoon under perfect weather conditions with the first of the series of two games between the Brooklyn National League club and the New York American League team. Several thousand fans turned out to see the teams play.

President Charles H. Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club designated this as "Donovan Day," as a compliment to Will Hill Donovan, the new manager of the Highlanders. Donovan got a great ovation. The Brooklyn players walked over to him in a body and shook his hand and wished him the best of luck. Donovan pitched for the Dodgers some years ago and is still popular here.

Union advanced three points to 129, and disappointed its friends in not quite reaching 130. Northern Pacific added nearly three points by selling at 109. Southern Pacific added 2 1/2 points to its record.

Some of the other stocks that advanced noticeably in price were New Haven, New York Central, Lehigh Valley, Atchafon, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelters, all classed as standard dividend payers.

In the speculative group there were gymnastic performances all the day. The automobile and rubber stocks puffed like six cylinders breaking speed laws. It was a poor issue that could not make a new high record. The non-dividend payers went higher than those paying dividends.

EXPLOSION INJURES 7 IN EDISON ELECTRIC PLANT

See Accumulator in Fire and Two Employees Are Killed.

By Hays.

A gas explosion in the Edison Electric Works at West Orange, N. J., yesterday injured one and slightly injured half a dozen employees at a clock shop. Many windows were blown out and a number of girls were so affected by the noise and shock that it became necessary to send them home.

The explosion occurred on the sixth floor in the spinning department, where there is a large gas main. In some way, the gas pressure was released and many girls fled their floors, but continued to reject the fluid into the oven.

Thomas Callahan, an employee, was opening the door of the oven, when the explosion occurred. His hair was burned off and his hands and face were blistered. About a dozen men and girls were associated with the force of the explosion.

The property damage was light.

RUMOR OF KAISER'S WISH FOR PEACE IS PERSISTENT

Government Officers at Washington, However, Refuse to Comment on Report.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Revival of reports that Germany, having abandoned hopes of a "smashing victory," has informally intimated to the United States a willingness to discuss peace propositions from the allies, met with no confirmation in official circles here to-day.

Secretary Bryan positively refused to comment on it. He said that reports of this character, in various guises, have been current here almost since war began, but none was based on anything concrete. He intimated that the present report, like the others, was based more on hope than on fact.

At the White House it was said there was nothing new in the situation. The President, it was stated, still sees no immediate opportunity for this Government to tender again its good offices to the belligerents. It was pointed out, however, that when a peace movement is initiated its success will depend on all information being withheld until a concrete basis for negotiation can be arranged.

Secretary Bryan, asked whether Germany has at any time confided to this Government an outline of terms, refused to answer.

GERMANS HAVE TAKEN 6,050 GUNS FROM ALL FOES SINCE MARCH 1

BERLIN, April 9.—An official statement issued here to-day said that since March 1, 6,050 guns of all description have been captured by the Germans.

These included 2,300 from the Belgians, 1,300 from the French, 850 from the Russians and 600 from the British.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also, to get up the water drinking, and no do it you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

DR. ERNEST P. MAGRUDER OF AMERICAN RED CROSS TYPHUS VICTIM IN SERBIA.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Dr. Ernest P. Magruder of this city, one of the physicians at the head of the American Red Cross unit in Serbia, has fallen a victim to typhus fever. His death was reported to-day from Belgrade to Red Cross headquarters here.

Dr. Magruder is the second American surgeon to give his life to the American Red Cross work to cope with the epidemic of typhus which is sweeping the stricken country. The first was Dr. Joseph E. Brinkley of Lincoln, Neb., a heroic effort to deal with the plague of six American surgeons and of twelve nurses who went in the Red Cross unit to Serbia only one has been untouched by the dread disease. He is Dr. C. F. Butler. None of the other cases, however, has resulted fatally.

When Dr. Edward Ryan, who was originally in charge of the American Red Cross unit in Serbia, was stricken after a heroic effort to deal with the plague, Dr. Magruder was put in charge of the work. In Washington he had been a professor of clinical surgery at Georgetown University and was prominent in the work of the American College of Surgeons. The dead surgeon was forty years old. His widow and two children are in Scotland, where they have been since he went to Serbia.

BRITISH STEAMER FOILS A SUBMARINE PURSUER; IS DAMAGED BY SHELLS

Theseus, Liverpool to Java, Escapes After Being Chased for 57 Miles.

LIVERPOOL, April 9 (Associated Press).—The captain of the Blue Funnel Line steamer Theseus, which left Liverpool March 27 for Java, has sent back a report of an exciting chase by a German submarine.

The Theseus escaped, but she was damaged by shell fire from the submarine. At 7 o'clock March 29 the Theseus sighted the submarine at a point forty miles southwest of Bishop Rock lighthouse.

The submarine signalled her to stop and abandon ship, but this order was ignored, and the Theseus put on full steam and started zig-zagging.

The submarine opened fire and continued throwing shells at the Theseus at intervals. The chase continued until 10:30, when the submarine abandoned the pursuit and turned her attention to a small steamer flying the Norwegian flag.

Of the seven explosive shells fired by the 2-inch gun on the submarine five struck the Theseus and did considerable damage. The mainmast was badly cut and the quarters of the firemen in the poop were wrecked. The distance covered during the chase was about fifty-seven miles.

The Theseus maintained a speed of about 17 knots. From time to time she fired explosive distress signals in the hope of attracting the attention of a British warship.

The Captain of the steamship is of the opinion that had it not been for the rough sea the submarine would have overhauled the ship.

All the damage to the vessel was above the waterline.

REPORTS ALLIES LANDING TROOPS AT ENOS, TURKEY, NEAR BULGARIAN FRONTIER.

LONDON, April 9.—The Chronicle correspondent at Athens writes: "Information has just reached me from Dedeagach, Bulgaria, that several transports, accompanied by warships and small craft, were distinctly visible this morning in splendid weather at Enos. It is supposed that a disembarkment of troops is being made along the coast."

Enos is on the Turkish coast just south of the Bulgarian frontier and north of the entrance to the Gulf of Saros, in which the allied fleet has been operating in its bombardment of the Dardanelles.
